Reviewing material from a class doesn't have to be boring. This game allows participants to stretch their legs, review concepts, and learn how sharing information benefits everyone.

1. Form a circle.
2. State something you learned or a concept discussed in class.
3. Hold onto one end of the yarn and pass the yarn to another person.
4. The person with the ball of yarn then states something he or she learned or a concept discussed in class.
5. Continue passing the ball of yarn until everyone has had a chance to participate, so that by the time the group has finished a yarn web has been completed.
6. Tack or tape the yarn web on the wall and discuss how sharing information benefits everyone.
