This icebreaker encourages individuals to focus on what they have in common with someone else.

1. Take a picture of each participant as they arrive.
2. Tape the pictures in pairs onto an easel near the entrance.
3. Open the meeting by having each person find the person they are paired with on the easel.
4. Have the pairs spend up to 5-10 minutes getting to know one another by asking open-ended questions and have them discover at least one thing they both have in common.
5. Have each pair introduce their partner to the rest of the group and have them share the commonalities they found with their partner.
